

Rhode Island Divorce Lawyer Concentrating In Child Custody, Child Support and Family Law

Description:

David Sleprow is a Rhode Island Divorce Lawyer concentrating in Rhode Island (RI), divorce, family law, domestic relations, child custody, child support, visitation, restraining orders and out of state family law issues.

He is a member of the bar in both Rhode Island and Massachusetts. In practice since 1997, David prides himself on being able to adapt to a particular client's desires.

He is aware that some clients want to work out an amicable settlement with a spouse while other clients want aggressive legal representation.

A "one-size fits all" strategy will not work in family law. A family law lawyer must be adept at helping clients in both highly contentious litigated matters and amicable out of court settlements. Our firm balances these interests and makes every effort to accommodate out of state clients who are unable to come to Rhode Island for client meetings.

This firm provides services in the following areas of family law:

- divorce (non-contested and contested)
- child support contempt proceedings
- child support modification and termination
- property settlement agreements
- adoptions
- divorce and family law mediation
- visitation disputes
- interstate child support, visitation and custody matters
- child custody
- alimony
- restraining orders/domestic violence/no contact orders
- criminal matters relating to family law
- out of state relocation
- father's rights
- out of state child support and family law issues
- paternity
- grandparents visitation
- enforcement of final judgment and court orders/contempt motions
- real estate issues concerning divorce and family law
